Description

This piece of Roman glassware was collected by Ida Flower on one of her Mediterranean voyages. Ida was born in Great Yarmouth and spent much of her adult years travelling around the globe collecting beautiful and strange objects. For an Edwardian lady to be travelling independently was very rare but Ida was determined to see the world and have many adventures!

Questions

1. Imagine going travelling 150 years ago; what type of transport would you use? How long would it take?
2. Write a short diary entry about a foreign land you came by on your imaginary travels and describe the objects you found.
